1. Supporting service delivery

- The locked, Excel drop-down format is annoying and laborious to use, and the requirement to divide out beneficiary numbers by localities that are smaller than our program reporting requirements adds time as we must calculate just for this cluster document. There must be a better way than terribly designed Excel rows!!
- the sector meeting is more of information shearing rather than solutions making to the gaps and challenges identify facing the wellbeing of the affected population and the sector mode of operations. so if the sector will change the mode and attitudes n addressing problems it will be highly appreciated.
- should be all inclusive
- We constantly collaborate with government to formulate response programme
- no matter how much discussed during the meeting still individual organisations will go about doing there own activities differently on there Own.
- I been if informed the cluster of any gaps or challenges facing affected population no any much action is taken rather organization like been in areas where other implimenting thwere activities while many are in need else where.
- There is need to come up with a structured use of the information that is collected.
- The basic of the cluster : to allow better coordination, is not even done for the moment, as there is no clear 4W, nor map and we still have to struggle to get the information of who is doing what where.

Thank you!
