In December, the Food Security Cluster response has continued to support existing food insecure populations in camps, off camp locations and growing interest in supporting returning populations.

Active monitoring and assessments of the food security situation continue with regular price and market bulletins, partner assessments and post distribution monitoring.

Complementing the emergency response, cluster partners are also providing livelihood support, capacity building and skills training as well as agricultural interventions across Iraq.

In preparation for 2018, the FSC is continuing the strategic and operational discussions with other humanitarian stakeholders to assist populations not covered by food based social protection systems.
