

FSS PALESTINE RESPONSE

FSS partners works on restoring and enhancing the productive capacity of vulnerable and affected households by promoting and protecting the rural and urban livelihoods and assets of both women and men beneficiaries. Productive activities offering income opportunities to women is a top priority in order to improve gender equality. Different needs by gender and age will drive the response plan, due to the continued commitment from the FSS structure to improve partners' gender mainstreaming understanding and operational capacity.

As part of the holistic response to the COVID-19, the FSS is working to support and protect small productive institutions from closing, or critically, downsizing their activities, to mitigate damage to women and men's livelihoods.

As an immediate response to food insecurity, and to also help preserve a viable environment for livelihood support interventions, FSS partners is continues to scale up food e-vouchers, in-kind food distribution where feasible and recommended, and cash assistance, including multi-purpose cash/vouchers.

Finally, the FSS response also supports advocacy initiatives focused on settler violence and impact of demolitions of livelihood assets on food insecurity, as well as on the right of Palestinians to access natural resources and maintain assets.

The FSS is working in cooperation with line ministries, to jointly agree on modalities for building local capacities to shape a coordinated and inclusive environment, ensuring consistency among humanitarian and development interventions.
