Introduction

Us, Kenya and Somalia cross-border trader's association is a non-political and non-profitable humanitarian relief- and development organization who works to save lives, promote self-reliance and dignity through human transformation going beyond relief and development.

USKESOCBA was established in 01/07/ 2012 as an umbrella organization for the existing humanitarian and development work. Since then the work has grown considerably, and SIH is working strategically and focused within the areas of Inclusive Education, hereunder Special Needs Education and Development of the Civil Society. USKESOCBA has its teams focusing on different key aspects in USKESOCBA's work:

While drought and looming hunger are the major causes of internal displacement in Somalia, the revival of armed conflict between the federal government, Al-Shabaab, and clan militias has also led to an upsurge in displacement. In September, 101,000 people were newly displaced due to conflict and insecurity.

The government published a four-year national durable solutions strategy in 2021, intended to address the causes and impacts of the country's internal displacement crisis. The USKESOCBA program also facilitated IDPs' local integration in Baidoa.

Similar initiatives should be encouraged, because they have the potential to assist Somalia's 2.9 million IDPs in bringing their displacement to a sustainable end.

Most of the new IDPS come from Beletweyn, Balcad and Jowhar area
